

U.S. HISTORY HACK™

Unit Assessment Book

Unit 8 — Postwar America (1945–1963) • Teacher Edition

HOW TO USE THIS BOOK

Three parts: (1) Formative Checkpoints — a short check per standard for progress monitoring (MTSS); (2) Unit Summative — two parallel forms (A and B) for pre/post or retakes; (3) Teacher Answer Key + Item Analysis + Reteach.

All items are pulled from the History Hack question bank. Classroom-formative • pre-field-test (pre-calibration) — not a secure TCAP form. First administration is what calibrates these items.

Administering these forms is what generates the response data to CALIBRATE the pre-calibrated items — the first cycle of use closes the loop.

Keys and reteach live in this teacher book only — reproduce the student sections (formative + Form A/B) without the key section.

Contents

Part 1 — Formative Checkpoints (by standard)

A quick DOK-balanced check for each standard. Use for progress monitoring; reteach routing is in the Teacher Key.

US.71 — 1950s Prosperity & Consumerism

1. How did the G.I. Bill contribute to the growth of the American middle class and suburban development? [US.71 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. It provided college tuition and low-interest home loans to nearly 8 million veterans, doubling the college-educated population and fueling suburban homeownership that created a massive new middle class
- B. The G.I. Bill had minimal economic impact, but contemporary accounts suggest a different explanation, which represents a common misconception about this historical period, but the historical evidence paints a more nuanced picture
- C. The G.I. Bill only provided unemployment benefits, although this view has been largely discredited by scholars, although this overlooks critical economic and social factors involved
- D. Only wealthy veterans could access G.I. Bill benefits, although this view has been largely discredited by scholars and fails to account for key developments in the broader context

2. What factors drove the shift from manufacturing to white-collar employment during the 1950s? [US.71 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Manufacturing jobs disappeared entirely, though this interpretation lacks supporting historical evidence, which represents a common misconception about this historical period, which does not align with the documented historical record
- B. Corporate growth, expanding service industries, and technological innovation created demand for managers, professionals, and office workers, with white-collar workers outnumbering blue-collar workers by 1956
- C. Workers preferred lower-paying office jobs, which ignores key developments that shaped the outcome and oversimplifies the complex factors at work during this period, but the historical evidence paints a more nuanced picture
- D. The government mandated the shift to white-collar work, yet the available evidence points to a different conclusion, which contradicts the primary source evidence from this era

US.72 — Baby Boomer Generation Impact

1. What factors caused the dramatic increase in U.S. birth rates from 1946-1964 known as the Baby Boom? [US.72 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Returning WWII veterans starting families, economic prosperity, G.I. Bill benefits, cultural emphasis on domesticity, and improved medical care
- B. Government mandates requiring larger families, although this view has been largely discredited by scholars
- C. Immigration from European countries after the war, which does not align with the documented historical record
- D. Declining living standards forcing families to have more children, although historical sources do not support this conclusion

2. What new markets and industries emerged to serve the growing youth population? [US.72 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Only the housing industry expanded, despite the fact that multiple sources contradict this view, though this interpretation lacks supporting historical evidence

- B. Pediatric healthcare, toy manufacturing, children's clothing, education, and youth entertainment industries all experienced explosive growth
- C. No new industries developed during this period, but contemporary accounts suggest a different explanation
- D. Only military-related industries expanded, but this fails to account for the broader historical context

US.73 — Eisenhower Administration Developments

1. How did the Salk polio vaccine demonstrate government's role in public health and medical advancement? [US.73 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Government funding and coordination of vaccine trials led to a breakthrough that eliminated a terrifying disease, showing public investment in medical research benefits all Americans
- B. The government opposed vaccine development, though this interpretation lacks supporting historical evidence, but closer analysis reveals a more complicated historical reality
- C. Private companies developed the vaccine without government involvement, but contemporary accounts suggest a different explanation, which represents a common misconception about this historical period
- D. The vaccine was developed in another country, which does not reflect the consensus among historians, which contradicts the primary source evidence from this era

2. What were the economic benefits of the Interstate Highway System for American commerce and industry? [US.73 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. The highway system had no significant economic impact, although this view has been largely discredited by scholars, but the historical evidence paints a more nuanced picture
- B. It created construction jobs, enabled efficient goods movement, and fueled growth in auto manufacturing, gas stations, motels, and fast food industries
- C. It only benefited rural agricultural communities, but the historical record tells a more complex story despite the fact that multiple contemporary sources contradict this
- D. It decreased trade between states, but this fails to account for the broader historical context when examined alongside the available primary and secondary sources

US.74 — Automobile's Growing Influence

1. How did widespread automobile ownership transform American daily life and family routines? [US.74 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Cars provided unprecedented mobility, allowing Americans to live farther from work, expanding shopping and leisure options, and giving teenagers new independence
- B. Cars had minimal impact on daily routines, which does not align with the documented historical record when examined alongside the available primary and secondary sources
- C. Only wealthy Americans owned cars in the 1950s, but this fails to account for the broader historical context, though this interpretation lacks supporting historical evidence
- D. Car ownership decreased family mobility, which represents a common misconception about the period, although this overlooks critical economic and social factors involved

2. What connection existed between car culture and the growth of suburbs like Levittown? [US.74 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Suburbs developed independently of automobile ownership, but this fails to account for the broader historical context, although this overlooks critical economic and social factors involved
- B. Cars made suburban living practical by enabling commutes to city jobs, leading developers like Levitt to build communities designed around automobile access with wide streets and garages

- C. Suburbs were built before cars became common, despite limited evidence supporting this interpretation and oversimplifies the complex factors at work during this period
- D. Car ownership declined as suburbs grew, which ignores key developments that shaped the outcome, but contemporary accounts and primary sources suggest otherwise

US.75 — Television and Mass Media Impact

1. How did television replace radio as the center of American family entertainment and home life? [US.75 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. TV became the center of family entertainment, with families scheduling activities around programs, sharing cultural experiences through popular shows, and redesigning living rooms around television sets
- B. Radio remained more popular than television, but this oversimplifies the complex factors at work, although this overlooks critical economic and social factors involved, which contradicts the primary source evidence from this era
- C. Television was only popular in wealthy households, which does not reflect the consensus among historians, which does not align with the documented historical record, but closer analysis reveals a more complicated historical reality
- D. Families spent less time at home after television's introduction, although this view has been largely discredited by scholars, which does not align with the documented historical record

2. How did television impact American politics during the 1950s and early 1960s? [US.75 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. It combined audio and visuals to influence consumer preferences at scale
- B. Televised debates and news coverage transformed how voters chose leaders
- C. TV advertising created national demand for products and shaped consumer desires
- D. TV became the center of family entertainment and a source of news

US.76 — Youth Culture and Tennessee Music

1. How did the Beat Generation challenge 1950s conformity and traditional American values? [US.76 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Beatniks rejected materialism and conventional careers, embraced artistic expression, questioned authority, and criticized conformity, laying groundwork for 1960s counterculture
- B. The Beat Generation embraced suburban conformity, although this overlooks critical economic and social factors despite the fact that multiple contemporary sources contradict this
- C. The Beat Generation had no influence on American culture, but this oversimplifies the complex factors at work, and this view has been largely revised by modern historical research
- D. Beatniks supported traditional family values, though this interpretation lacks supporting historical evidence when examined alongside the available primary and secondary sources

2. How did the transition from swing music to rhythm and blues and then to rock and roll reflect broader social changes in American society during the 1950s? [US.76 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. The shift reflected purely musical preferences with no connection to race, class, or generational identity
- B. Rock and roll merged African American rhythm and blues with country influences, crossing racial barriers and challenging segregation among youth
- C. The shift from swing to rock and roll was directed by the federal government as part of a cultural unity campaign
- D. Rock and roll emerged exclusively in Northern cities and was unknown in the South until the 1970s

US.77 — Kennedy's New Frontier

1. What were President Kennedy's main domestic and international goals through the New Frontier programs? [US.77 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Kennedy's New Frontier aimed to improve education, enforce civil rights, compete in space exploration, create the Peace Corps, and stimulate economic growth
- B. Kennedy focused only on military expansion, although historical sources do not support this conclusion, which ignores significant political and cultural developments of the era
- C. The New Frontier only addressed foreign policy, although historical sources do not support this conclusion when examined alongside the available primary and secondary sources
- D. Kennedy had no significant domestic agenda, despite limited evidence supporting this interpretation and does not reflect the scholarly consensus on this topic

2. How did the Peace Corps reflect Kennedy's vision for America's role in the world? [US.77 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. The Peace Corps was a military program, despite the fact that multiple sources contradict this view and fails to account for key developments in the broader context
- B. The Peace Corps sent volunteers to developing countries to provide assistance, reflecting Kennedy's vision of promoting American values through service and idealism rather than military force
- C. The Peace Corps only operated within the United States, yet the available evidence points to a different conclusion, but closer analysis reveals a more complicated historical reality
- D. Kennedy opposed the Peace Corps concept, yet the available evidence points to a different conclusion, though this interpretation lacks supporting historical evidence

Part 2 — Unit Summative • Form A

DIRECTIONS

Choose the best answer for each question. Classroom-formative • pre-field-test (pre-calibration) — not a secure TCAP form. First administration is what calibrates these items.

Part 3 — Unit Summative • Form B

Choose the best answer for each question. Classroom-formative • pre-field-test (pre-calibration) — not a secure TCAP form. First administration is what calibrates these items.

Name: _____ Class / Period: _____ Date: _____

1. How did the GI Bill contribute to the economic prosperity and suburban growth of the United States after World War II? [US.71 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. It provided government-funded factory jobs in urban areas that attracted veterans back to city centers
- B. It required all veterans to relocate to rural areas to work in government-sponsored agricultural programs
- C. It offered veterans low-interest home loans, college tuition benefits, and job training that expanded the middle class and fueled suburban development
- D. It gave veterans tax exemptions for purchasing imported goods, boosting foreign trade but limiting domestic manufacturing

2. How did U.S. dependence on foreign oil affect the American economy and suburban lifestyle of the 1950s? [US.71 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Foreign oil dependence had no impact on American daily life because the U.S. was entirely self-sufficient in oil production during the 1950s
- B. High oil import costs caused widespread fuel shortages throughout the 1950s, limiting automobile ownership to wealthy Americans
- C. The United States banned all oil imports during the 1950s to protect the domestic petroleum industry
- D. Cheap imported oil kept gasoline prices low, enabling the widespread automobile use and suburban sprawl that defined 1950s American life

3. Which factor best explains why suburban communities expanded rapidly in the United States during the 1950s? [US.71 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. The combination of GI Bill home loans, mass-produced housing developments, and automobile ownership made suburban living affordable for the middle class
- B. The federal government condemned all urban areas and required families to relocate to newly built suburbs
- C. Suburbs grew because city governments raised taxes so high that all residents were forced to leave
- D. The decline of American manufacturing caused workers to relocate to suburban areas where agricultural jobs were available

4. The growth of American suburbs in the 1950s was facilitated by which three factors? [US.72 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Mandatory school integration, urban crime reduction, and the baby boom
- B. Government housing subsidies, expanding public transit, and urban industrial growth
- C. Television advertising, racial integration policies, and declining farm employment
- D. The GI Bill, the interstate highway system, and mass production techniques that lowered housing costs

5. How did the baby boom generation reshape American society and the economy as its members grew up? [US.72 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. The large baby boom generation drove demand for schools, consumer goods, and housing, and reshaped the labor market when boomers entered it

- B. The baby boom had little economic impact because the generation was too small to influence consumer markets
- C. Baby boomers primarily emigrated to other countries, reducing the size of the American workforce
- D. The baby boom was confined to rural areas and had no influence on urban or suburban development

6. Which pattern best explains the connection between the baby boom generation and the rise of youth culture in the 1950s and 1960s? [US.72 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Baby boomers were raised to follow their parents' cultural preferences exactly, producing no distinct youth identity
- B. The sheer size of the baby boom generation created a mass youth market, and businesses targeted teenagers with music, fashion, and entertainment that became a distinct youth culture
- C. Baby boomers rejected all forms of consumerism, creating a youth culture based entirely on self-sufficiency
- D. Youth culture emerged because the government required young people to spend free time in civic organizations rather than consuming entertainment

7. How did the Interstate Highway System, authorized under Eisenhower in 1956, transform American society and the economy? [US.73 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. It accelerated suburban growth, shifted freight dominance from railroads to trucking, and fostered automobile-dependent communities
- B. It connected major cities but had little effect on commerce because most goods continued to be shipped by railroad
- C. It was built exclusively for military use and remained closed to civilian traffic for the first decade
- D. It reduced automobile use by providing efficient mass transit corridors connecting urban centers

8. How did advances in medicine and public health during the Eisenhower era affect American society?

[US.73 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Medical advances had little impact because most Americans still relied on traditional home remedies rather than professional medical care
- B. Developments such as the Salk polio vaccine reduced childhood disease mortality, improved average life expectancy, and increased public confidence in scientific medicine
- C. Medical advances during the 1950s were limited to military hospitals and were not available to the general public until the 1970s
- D. The Eisenhower administration nationalized all hospitals, making medical care universally free for American citizens

9. Why did Eisenhower justify building the Interstate Highway System primarily on national defense grounds rather than economic ones? [US.73 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Congress only funded infrastructure projects that had direct military applications, so economic arguments were legally prohibited
- B. The economic benefits of highways were unknown in 1956, so Eisenhower had no economic argument to make
- C. Framing the highway system as necessary for military troop and equipment movement made it easier to secure congressional funding during the Cold War
- D. Eisenhower opposed the economic development aspects of the highway system and only approved it for defense reasons

10. Which business trend reflects automobile-centered consumer culture? [US.74 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. It supported suburban commuting and encouraged development farther from city centers
- B. Growth of roadside services such as motels, service stations, and fast-food chains
- C. It created drive-in restaurants, motels, shopping centers, and suburban sprawl
- D. Air pollution increased as vehicle ownership and highway travel expanded

11. What was one environmental consequence of mass automobile use after World War II? [US.74 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Cars allowed workers to live far from cities and commute to their jobs
- B. It created fast food chains, motels, shopping centers, and drive-ins
- C. Air pollution increased as vehicle ownership and highway travel expanded
- D. It created drive-in restaurants, motels, shopping centers, and suburban sprawl

12. How did the growth of suburbs affect American cities? [US.74 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Highway construction often displaced city neighborhoods while resources favored suburban expansion
- B. It supported suburban commuting and encouraged development farther from city centers
- C. Growth of roadside services such as motels, service stations, and fast-food chains
- D. White families moved to suburbs while minorities were often excluded, leading to urban decline

13. Which change in campaigning is most associated with television's rise? [US.75 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Families across regions watched the same news, sports, and entertainment programs
- B. The 1960 Kennedy-Nixon debate showed that television image mattered as much as policy
- C. Candidates invested more in image, televised appearances, and short message framing
- D. Broadcast images of protests and violence drew national attention to segregation

14. How did mass media affect civil rights awareness in the 1950s and 1960s? [US.75 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Families across regions watched the same news, sports, and entertainment programs
- B. TV advertising created national demand for products and shaped consumer desires
- C. Candidates invested more in image, televised appearances, and short message framing
- D. Broadcast images of protests and violence drew national attention to segregation

15. The decline of local newspapers and local television news since 2000 has contributed to political polarization by — [US.75 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Leaving a void filled by national partisan media
- B. Making national politics less important to most Americans
- C. Having no measurable effect on political attitudes
- D. Strengthening the power of local politicians who no longer face media scrutiny

16. What was the significance of Sun Studio and Stax Records in Memphis, Tennessee? [US.76 • DOK 1 • pre-field-test]

- A. Writers and artists who rejected conformity, foreshadowing the 1960s counterculture
- B. It blended Black and white musical traditions, challenging racial boundaries
- C. They helped launch rock 'n' roll by blending Black and white musical styles
- D. They were pioneering recording studios that launched rock 'n' roll and soul music

17. According to the passage, where did Elvis Presley say rock 'n' roll music originally came from? [US.76 • DOK 1 • pre-field-test]

- A. Black musicians who had been playing it for many years before him

- B. Country musicians in Nashville who developed it from folk traditions
- C. Classical composers who adapted European musical styles for audiences
- D. British musicians who brought the sound to America during the 1950s

18. Who were some famous rock 'n' roll artists besides Elvis Presley? [US.76 • DOK 1 • pre-field-test]

- A. Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Perry Como, and Nat King Cole
- B. Chuck Berry, Little Richard, Buddy Holly, and Jerry Lee Lewis
- C. Duke Ellington, Louis Armstrong, Dizzy Gillespie, and Count Basie
- D. Hank Williams, Patsy Cline, Johnny Cash, and Kitty Wells

19. How did New Frontier proposals influence later domestic policy even when not fully enacted under Kennedy? [US.77 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. They provided legislative foundations that Johnson advanced through Great Society programs
- B. Sending American volunteers abroad to support education, health, and development projects
- C. It traumatized the nation and created sympathy that helped pass his legislative agenda
- D. A domestic agenda to improve education, end discrimination, and advance science

20. How did Kennedy's New Frontier agenda reflect a departure from Eisenhower's domestic priorities?

[US.77 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. The New Frontier reduced federal spending dramatically to balance the budget, reversing Eisenhower's expansion of programs like the Interstate Highway System
- B. The New Frontier called for increased federal investment in education, space exploration, foreign aid through the Peace Corps, and civil rights — a more activist approach than Eisenhower's
- C. Kennedy's New Frontier focused exclusively on military preparedness and eliminated all social welfare programs from the federal budget
- D. The New Frontier represented a return to isolationism by ending foreign aid and withdrawing from international organizations

21. How did the Peace Corps, established by Kennedy in 1961, reflect the goals of the New Frontier?

[US.77 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. The Peace Corps was a military organization designed to train soldiers for counterinsurgency operations in developing nations
- B. The Peace Corps was established to provide employment for American workers during a recession rather than to assist foreign countries
- C. The Peace Corps embodied the New Frontier's call to service, sending volunteers to developing nations to advance economic development and goodwill as peaceful Cold War competition
- D. The Peace Corps focused exclusively on rebuilding European nations still recovering from the devastation of World War II
