

U.S. HISTORY HACK™

Unit Assessment Book

Unit 1 — The Rise of Industrialization (1877–1900) • Teacher Edition

HOW TO USE THIS BOOK

Three parts: (1) Formative Checkpoints — a short check per standard for progress monitoring (MTSS); (2) Unit Summative — two parallel forms (A and B) for pre/post or retakes; (3) Teacher Answer Key + Item Analysis + Reteach.

All items are pulled from the History Hack question bank. Classroom-formative • pre-field-test (pre-calibration) — not a secure TCAP form.

Administering these forms is what generates the response data to CALIBRATE the pre-calibrated items — the first cycle of use closes the loop.

Keys and reteach live in this teacher book only — reproduce the student sections (formative + Form A/B) without the key section.

Contents

Part 1 — Formative Checkpoints (by standard)

A quick DOK-balanced check for each standard. Use for progress monitoring; reteach routing is in the Teacher Key.

US.01 — Homestead Act and Transcontinental Railroad

1. The Homestead Act of 1862 offered settlers how many acres of free land in exchange for living on and improving the property for five years? [US.01 • DOK 1 • pre-field-test]

- A. 160 acres
- B. 240 acres
- C. 320 acres
- D. 80 acres

2. Which statement best explains how the Transcontinental Railroad facilitated western expansion?

[US.01 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. It was built exclusively by American workers, providing jobs for tens of thousands of unemployed citizens
- B. It eliminated the need for wagon trains and stagecoaches almost overnight, ending earlier overland travel
- C. It reduced travel time from months to days and enabled efficient movement of settlers, goods, and resources across the continent
- D. It provided direct access to gold mines in California

US.02 — Federal Policies Toward American Indians

1. The Dawes Act of 1887 was primarily designed to: [US.02 • DOK 1 • pre-field-test]

- A. Create boarding schools for American Indian children
- B. Divide tribal lands into individual allotments to promote private
- C. Establish permanent reservation boundaries for American Indian tribes to prevent further land disputes
- D. Provide military protection for American Indian communities

2. Which statement best describes the federal government's assimilation policy toward American Indians in the late 19th century? [US.02 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. The government focused exclusively on military conquest without
- B. The government promoted cultural exchange between American Indians
- C. The government sought to preserve traditional American Indian languages and cultural practices on reservations
- D. The government aimed to eliminate American Indian cultural practices

US.03 — Compromise of 1877, Jim Crow & Plessy v. Ferguson

1. The Compromise of 1877 resulted in the end of Reconstruction by: [US.03 • DOK 1 • pre-field-test]

- A. Creating new constitutional amendments to protect voting rights
- B. Establishing federal troops as permanent peacekeepers in Southern
- C. Guaranteeing civil rights protections for African Americans in the South through federal enforcement
- D. Removing federal troops from the South in exchange for Rutherford B.

2. Which disenfranchisement method was specifically designed to prevent African Americans from voting while allowing most poor whites to maintain voting rights? [US.03 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Property ownership requirements for most voters
- B. Age restrictions that raised the voting age to 25
- C. Poll taxes that affected citizens across income levels
- D. Literacy tests combined with grandfather clauses

US.04 — Gilded Age Politics and Economics

1. The spoils system refers to the practice of: [US.04 • DOK 1 • pre-field-test]

- A. Requiring civil service examinations for many federal employees
- B. Limiting government employment to college graduates primarily
- C. Distributing government jobs based on merit and qualifications
- D. Awarding government positions to political supporters regardless of qualifications or merit

2. Boss William M. Tweed's political machine in New York City was primarily able to maintain power through: [US.04 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Providing services to immigrants and the poor in exchange for their political loyalty and votes
- B. Building coalitions with rural farmers and industrial workers
- C. Winning elections through superior campaign strategies and debates
- D. Implementing progressive reforms that benefited most social classes

US.05 — Inventions & Innovations of Business Leaders & Entrepreneurs

1. Henry Bessemer's most significant contribution to American industrialization was: [US.05 • DOK 1 • pre-field-test]

- A. Creating a process for mass-producing high-quality steel
- B. Establishing the first transcontinental railroad system
- C. Inventing the electric light bulb
- D. Developing the first practical telephone system

2. Madam C.J. Walker's business innovations were significant because they: [US.05 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Established the foundation for modern pharmaceutical companies
- B. Created the first franchise business model in American history
- C. Introduced the first mass-produced cosmetics to American markets
- D. Demonstrated that women and African Americans could build successful

US.06 — Industrial Centers and Urbanization

1. Pittsburgh became a major industrial center primarily because of its: [US.06 • DOK 1 • pre-field-test]

- A. Access to coal deposits and iron ore transportation routes
- B. Established textile manufacturing infrastructure
- C. Location near major seaports for international trade
- D. Proximity to agricultural markets in the Midwest

2. Which geographic factor best explains Chicago's emergence as a major industrial center? [US.06 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Its position at the southern tip of Lake Michigan made it a natural hub connecting eastern rail lines with western agricultural resources

- B. Its mountainous terrain provided abundant water power for manufacturing operations
- C. Its location on the Atlantic coast provided easy access to European markets and immigrant labor
- D. Its proximity to Texas oil fields provided cheap energy for industrial production

US.07 — Immigration: Old vs. New Immigrants

1. The primary difference between "old" and "new" immigrants to the United States was: [US.07 • DOK 1
• pre-field-test]

- A. "Old" immigrants came primarily from Asia while "new" immigrants came primarily from Europe
- B. "Old" immigrants came from Northern and Western Europe while "new" immigrants came from Southern and Eastern Europe
- C. "Old" immigrants were primarily Protestant while "new" immigrants
- D. "Old" immigrants arrived before 1800 while "new" immigrants

2. Angel Island served as an immigration station primarily for immigrants from: [US.07 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Italy and Poland
- B. Mexico and Central America
- C. China and other Asian countries
- D. Ireland and Germany

Part 2 — Unit Summative • Form A

DIRECTIONS

Choose the best answer for each question. Classroom-formative • pre-field-test (pre-calibration) — not a secure TCAP form.

Name: _____ Class / Period: _____ Date: _____

1. The Buffalo Soldiers, including George Jordan of Williamson County, Tennessee, primarily served in which capacity during western expansion? [US.01 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Military units protecting settlers and railroad workers
- B. Negotiators in American Indian treaty discussions
- C. Homestead Act land surveyors
- D. Railroad construction supervisors

2. Which conclusion about the Homestead Act of 1862 is BEST supported by the text of the law and its historical context? [US.01 • DOK 3 • pre-field-test]

- A. The Act's eligibility requirements — 'head of a family' and 'citizen' — implicitly excluded many groups, including married women and non-citizens, even as it promised opportunity to ordinary Americans.
- B. The Act was primarily intended to reward Civil War veterans and was therefore limited to men who had served in the Union Army.
- C. The Act effectively transferred land from Southern planters to formerly enslaved people, fulfilling the promise of 'forty acres and a mule.'
- D. Congress designed the Act mainly to generate revenue for war debt repayment, with western settlement as a secondary goal.

3. The Transcontinental Railroad, completed in 1869, connected Omaha, Nebraska to: [US.01 • DOK 1 • pre-field-test]

- A. San Francisco, California
- B. Portland, Oregon
- C. Los Angeles, California
- D. Sacramento, California

4. The primary purpose of American Indian boarding schools like Carlisle Industrial School was to: [US.02 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Provide advanced academic education while preserving tribal languages and customs
- B. Remove children from tribal influences and teach them Euro-American language, dress, religion, and labor habits to force assimilation
- C. Train American Indian students for leadership roles within their
- D. Offer vocational training that complemented traditional American Indian skills and economies

5. The Dawes Act resulted in American Indians losing approximately two-thirds of their tribal lands between 1887 and 1934. This outcome demonstrates: [US.02 • DOK 3 • pre-field-test]

- A. American Indians' willing participation in the federal assimilation
- B. The effectiveness of the allotment system in protecting American Indian land ownership
- C. The gap between the Act's stated humanitarian purposes and its
- D. The success of the federal government's stated goal of helping American Indians integrate into white society

6. Andrew Carnegie's dominance of the American steel industry in the late 1800s relied primarily on:

[US.02 • DOK 1 • pre-field-test]

- A. Government subsidies that gave Carnegie Steel an unfair advantage over competitors
- B. Vertical integration — owning every stage of production from iron ore mines and coal fields to steel mills and railroads that shipped the finished product
- C. Horizontal integration — purchasing all competing steel companies to control the market
- D. Tariff protection that prevented cheaper British steel from entering the American market

7. Benjamin \"Pap\" Singleton encouraged African Americans to migrate to Kansas because:

[US.03 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Kansas offered the best economic opportunities in agriculture
- B. The federal government provided free transportation to Kansas
- C. Kansas had fewer Jim Crow restrictions and offered the possibility of land ownership and political participation for African Americans
- D. Kansas was the first state that allowed African American land

8. Which statement BEST explains the primary function of Jim Crow laws in the post-Reconstruction South?

[US.03 • DOK 3 • pre-field-test]

- A. Jim Crow laws functioned as a comprehensive legal system to enforce racial segregation in public life and politically and economically disempower African Americans after Reconstruction ended.
- B. Jim Crow laws were designed primarily to ensure public safety and order in cities with rapidly growing African American populations after emancipation.
- C. Jim Crow laws were mainly economic regulations intended to prevent African American workers from competing with white workers in skilled industrial trades.
- D. Jim Crow laws were largely symbolic gestures of Southern resistance that had little practical effect on the daily lives of African Americans.

9. Benjamin 'Pap' Singleton was a Tennessee freedman who became known for organizing:

[US.03 • DOK 1 • pre-field-test]

- A. The 'Exoduster' movement — mass migration of African Americans from the South to Kansas in the late 1870s
- B. The legal challenge that led to the Civil Rights Act of 1875
- C. The Nashville Convention of 1875 to negotiate voting rights for freedmen
- D. The first African American regiment in the Union Army during the Civil War

10. Thomas Nast's political cartoons were significant during the Gilded Age because they:

[US.04 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Supported the policies of political machines like Tammany Hall
- B. Exposed political corruption and influenced public opinion against
- C. Promoted the expansion of the spoils system in government hiring
- D. Encouraged immigrants to participate more actively in politics

11. Which factor MOST directly explains why economic inequality between industrial capitalists and wage workers grew so dramatically during the Gilded Age?

[US.04 • DOK 3 • pre-field-test]

- A. Industrial capitalists accumulated disproportionate wealth because they controlled the means of production, set wages, and lobbied for government policies — tariffs, anti-strike injunctions, and land grants — that systematically favored capital over labor.
- B. Wage workers refused to accept technological innovations in factories, which limited their productivity and prevented them from sharing in industrial profits.

- C. The primary cause of inequality was immigration, which flooded the labor market with desperate workers willing to accept wages that native-born Americans would not.
- D. Economic inequality in the Gilded Age was a temporary phase that corrected itself through market competition, as new industries eventually raised wages across all sectors.

12. What was the most significant reform introduced by the Pendleton Civil Service Act of 1883? [US.04 •

DOK 1 • pre-field-test]

- A. It eliminated the entire spoils system by prohibiting political donations from all federal employees
- B. It created a constitutional amendment requiring Senate confirmation of every mid-level federal position
- C. It established the merit principle by requiring that many federal jobs be awarded based on competitive examinations rather than political connections
- D. It transferred control of lower-level federal appointments from the president to congressional committees

13. J.P. Morgan's role in American business was primarily as: [US.05 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. A financier who organized and consolidated major industries
- B. An inventor who created new manufacturing technologies
- C. A transportation entrepreneur who built railroad networks
- D. An oil refinery owner who controlled petroleum distribution

14. Which criticism of Carnegie's argument in 'Wealth' is MOST directly supported by evidence from the Gilded Age? [US.05 • DOK 3 • pre-field-test]

- A. Carnegie's philanthropy undermined capitalism by redistributing wealth in ways that discouraged individual initiative and created dependency among the poor.
- B. Carnegie's framework left unchallenged the business practices — wage suppression, union-busting, and monopoly — that produced the inequality his philanthropy claimed to address.
- C. Carnegie's argument was hypocritical because he secretly opposed all charitable giving and directed most of his fortune to his heirs.
- D. Carnegie's philanthropy was effective but too narrowly focused on education, ignoring the far greater need for investment in industrial wages and worker safety.

15. Thomas Edison's Menlo Park laboratory was historically significant because it: [US.05 • DOK 1 • pre-field-test]

- A. Produced the first successful automobile for mass manufacture in America
- B. Was the first industrial research laboratory
- C. Developed the telephone that Alexander Graham Bell patented in 1876
- D. Created the first wireless radio communications system in the United States

16. The primary reason people moved from rural areas to industrial cities like Boston and New York City during the late 1800s was: [US.06 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Better educational opportunities for their children
- B. Cleaner living conditions and improved public health
- C. Government programs that encouraged urban settlement
- D. Factory jobs that offered regular wages and year-round employment

17. Which argument BEST explains why push factors were more decisive than pull factors in driving rural-to-urban migration during American industrialization in the late 19th century? [US.06 • DOK 3 • pre-field-test]

- A. Urban pull factors — industrial wages, ethnic community networks, and cultural opportunities — were consistently strong enough that rural Americans migrated even when agricultural conditions were favorable.
- B. The mechanization of agriculture, falling crop prices, and debt cycles in rural areas forced many Americans and immigrants off the land, making push factors the primary driver even when urban conditions were harsh.
- C. Pull factors dominated because most migrants were attracted to cities by the promise of high wages and immediately found stable employment upon arrival.
- D. Neither push nor pull factors significantly explains rural-to-urban migration; instead, government recruitment programs were the primary driver of population movement to industrial centers.

18. The 'New Immigration' of the 1880s-1910s differed from earlier immigration waves primarily because: [US.06 • DOK 1 • pre-field-test]

- A. The new immigrants were primarily skilled industrial workers sought by American manufacturers
- B. The new immigrants came primarily from Northern and Western Europe like earlier waves
- C. The new immigrants settled primarily in rural agricultural communities rather than cities
- D. The new immigrants came primarily from Southern and Eastern Europe

19. Jane Addams is significant in immigration history because she: [US.07 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Established settlement houses to help immigrants assimilate to American urban life through education, services, and community support
- B. Founded the first ethnic newspapers for immigrant communities
- C. Led efforts to restrict immigration through federal legislation
- D. Organized labor unions exclusively for immigrant workers

20. Which argument BEST explains why push factors in Europe were more decisive than American pull factors in driving the 'new immigration' wave of 1880–1920 from Southern and Eastern Europe? [US.07 • DOK 3 • pre-field-test]

- A. Pull factors dominated because American wages were consistently 3–5 times higher than European wages, making immigration an economically rational choice regardless of conditions in the country of origin.
- B. Neither push nor pull factors explain new immigration; steamship companies manufactured immigration demand by actively recruiting in European villages for their own commercial benefit.
- C. Pull factors dominated because the U.S. government actively advertised economic opportunities in Southern and Eastern Europe through a network of immigration agencies.
- D. Push factors were more decisive because population pressure, agricultural displacement, religious persecution, and political instability in Southern and Eastern Europe made emigration a necessity for survival rather than an opportunity for advancement.

21. Jane Addams founded Hull House in Chicago in 1889 primarily as a: [US.07 • DOK 1 • pre-field-test]

- A. Research institution to study the scientific causes of urban poverty
- B. Settlement house in a poor immigrant neighborhood
- C. Political headquarters for women's suffrage organizing in Illinois
- D. Charity organization that distributed food and clothing to the urban poor

Part 3 — Unit Summative • Form B

DIRECTIONS

Choose the best answer for each question. Classroom-formative • pre-field-test (pre-calibration) — not a secure TCAP form.

Name: _____ Class / Period: _____ Date: _____

1. Which of the following best describes a direct impact of the Homestead Act of 1862 on settlement patterns in the American West? [US.01 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. It encouraged settlement by offering 160 acres of public land to citizens who agreed to farm it for five years
- B. It restricted western migration by requiring settlers to purchase land at market prices from the federal government
- C. It redirected migration to the Pacific Coast by offering free land only in Oregon and Washington territories
- D. It promoted settlement exclusively among formerly enslaved people as part of Reconstruction land redistribution

2. The completion of the Transcontinental Railroad in 1869 had which unintended consequence for American Indian tribes in the Great Plains? [US.01 • DOK 3 • pre-field-test]

- A. It provided new economic opportunities for American Indian tribes willing to assimilate into the market economy
- B. It accelerated the near-extinction of buffalo herds, undermining Plains Indian food supplies, culture, and economic independence
- C. It resulted in the establishment of permanent American Indian trading posts along the rail line
- D. It led to increased diplomatic negotiations between tribes and the federal government over land use

3. Which of the following best describes the relationship between Manifest Destiny ideology and the construction of the Transcontinental Railroad? [US.01 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Manifest Destiny provided the philosophical justification while the Transcontinental Railroad provided the practical means for westward expansion
- B. The railroad construction disproved the concept of Manifest Destiny
- C. The railroad was built to prevent further westward expansion
- D. Manifest Destiny and railroad construction were unrelated historical

4. Which of the following best describes how the reservation system changed traditional American Indian ways of life? [US.02 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. It preserved tribal governance structures by giving tribes full control over reservation boundaries and resources
- B. It provided tribes with guaranteed federal income that allowed them to maintain their nomadic lifestyle
- C. It forced tribes onto restricted land, undermining their traditional economies and self-governing institutions
- D. It strengthened tribal unity by consolidating multiple tribes onto shared lands with common resources

5. A historian analyzing Captain Pratt's 1892 statement about American Indian education would MOST likely conclude that boarding school policy was primarily designed to accomplish which goal? [US.02 • DOK 3 • pre-field-test]

- A. To provide American Indian children with vocational skills so they could compete economically in the industrial labor market.
- B. To physically eliminate American Indian populations by separating children from their communities and subjecting them to dangerous conditions.
- C. To erase American Indian cultural identity, language, and tribal belonging while preserving the individual person as an assimilated American citizen.
- D. To preserve American Indian languages and traditions in a controlled environment away from the disruptions of reservation life.

6. What was the primary difference between the reservation system and the Dawes Act of 1887 in their approach to American Indian land ownership? [US.02 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. The Dawes Act created new reservations while the reservation system dissolved existing ones
- B. The reservation system required individual land ownership, while the Dawes Act returned land to tribal collective control
- C. Both policies had the same effect on tribal land ownership but differed only in geographic scope
- D. The reservation system preserved tribal land ownership collectively, while the Dawes Act broke up tribal lands into individual allotments

7. Which of the following best explains how the Compromise of 1877 contributed to the end of Reconstruction? [US.03 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. It resolved the disputed 1876 presidential election by awarding the presidency to Hayes in exchange for withdrawing federal troops from the South
- B. It gave Southern states greater congressional representation in exchange for ratifying the 14th Amendment
- C. It established the Freedmen's Bureau as a permanent federal agency to protect formerly enslaved people
- D. It required Southern states to hold new elections supervised by Northern military commanders before rejoining the Union

8. Which interpretation of Justice Brown's reasoning in Plessy v. Ferguson is BEST supported by this excerpt? [US.03 • DOK 3 • pre-field-test]

- A. Brown argued that racial segregation was constitutionally justified because it accurately reflected the biological differences between races recognized by science.
- B. Brown shifted responsibility for the stigma of segregation onto African Americans themselves, deflecting constitutional scrutiny away from the state-enforced racial hierarchy.
- C. Brown acknowledged that segregation was morally wrong but concluded that the Constitution did not empower the federal government to regulate social customs.
- D. Brown's opinion prioritized protecting the Fourteenth Amendment's equal protection clause over preserving state control of public facilities.

9. Which of the following methods was most commonly used by Southern states after Reconstruction to prevent African Americans from voting while appearing legally neutral? [US.03 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Passing constitutional amendments explicitly prohibiting Black men from voting in state elections
- B. Implementing poll taxes, literacy tests, and grandfather clauses that imposed barriers regardless of race in law but targeted Black voters in practice
- C. Requiring federal approval for any Black voter to register under the Civil Rights Act of 1875
- D. Repealing the 15th Amendment at the state level to restore pre-Civil War voting restrictions

10. How did President James Garfield's assassination in 1881 contribute to the passage of the Pendleton Civil Service Act of 1883? [US.04 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Garfield had personally drafted the Pendleton Act before his death, and Congress passed it as a memorial tribute
- B. The assassination revealed corruption within the Treasury Department, prompting Congress to overhaul federal contracting practices
- C. Garfield's assassin was a disappointed office-seeker, and public outrage over the spoils system created political pressure for merit-based hiring reform
- D. President Arthur used the assassination as justification to reorganize the entire executive branch under military command

11. A historian analyzing Thomas Nast's 'The Tammany Tiger Loose' cartoon would MOST likely conclude that Nast's primary argument was which of the following? [US.04 • DOK 3 • pre-field-test]

- A. Political machines like Tammany Hall, when unchecked, would devour democratic self-government just as a predator destroys its prey — with corrupt leaders watching passively from positions of safety.
- B. The Roman colosseum setting suggests that Nast believed American democracy had already failed and that the United States should return to a classical republican form of government.
- C. Nast was arguing that immigrant voters, symbolized by the tiger, were the primary threat to American democracy and should be denied the right to vote.
- D. Nast used the tiger image to celebrate the raw power and efficiency of political machines in delivering services to poor urban immigrants.

12. What problem was the Interstate Commerce Act of 1887 primarily designed to address that the Pendleton Civil Service Act of 1883 did not? [US.04 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Political corruption among federal government employees who accepted bribes from private businesses
- B. The concentration of industrial wealth among a small number of Gilded Age monopolists in manufacturing
- C. The exploitation of immigrant workers in railroad construction through low-wage labor practices
- D. Unfair railroad pricing practices, including rate discrimination and secret rebates that harmed farmers and small businesses

13. Which of the following best describes the impact of Thomas Edison's electric light bulb on daily life in the United States during the late 1800s? [US.05 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. It extended productive hours into the evening for businesses, factories, and homes, transforming work and leisure patterns
- B. It eliminated the need for factories to run night shifts, reducing industrial output in urban areas
- C. It replaced steam power as the primary energy source for industrial machinery almost immediately after its invention
- D. It was adopted first in rural farming communities before electricity spread to urban centers

14. George Washington Carver's agricultural innovations had which long-term impact on the American South? [US.05 • DOK 3 • pre-field-test]

- A. They eliminated the need for crop rotation in Southern agriculture
- B. They led to the complete mechanization of Southern farming
- C. They helped diversify Southern agriculture beyond cotton dependency
- D. They made cotton production more profitable than ever before

15. How did John D. Rockefeller's business strategy for building Standard Oil differ from Andrew Carnegie's approach to building his steel empire? [US.05 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Rockefeller used vertical integration to control steel production while Carnegie used horizontal integration to control oil refining
- B. Rockefeller used horizontal integration to buy out competing oil refineries while Carnegie used vertical integration to control every stage of steel production
- C. Both industrialists relied on the same strategy of vertical integration in their respective industries
- D. Carnegie eliminated competition through secret price agreements while Rockefeller built monopoly power through government-granted charters

16. Why did Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania become the center of the American steel industry in the late 19th century? [US.06 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Pittsburgh had access to a large immigrant workforce and mild climate that made year-round steel production efficient
- B. Federal government subsidies specifically directed steel investment to Pittsburgh as part of post-Civil War industrial policy
- C. Pittsburgh's proximity to Atlantic ports allowed steel companies to import cheaper European raw materials
- D. Pittsburgh's location near abundant coal deposits, iron ore shipping routes, and river transportation made it ideal for large-scale steel production

17. Which conclusion about American urbanization from 1870 to 1900 is BEST supported by the U.S. Census data showing Chicago growing from 299,000 to 1.7 million and New York from 942,000 to 3.4 million? [US.06 • DOK 3 • pre-field-test]

- A. The dramatic concentration of population in industrial cities during this period reflected the convergence of railroad transportation, mass immigration, and industrial job creation — factors that reinforced one another.
- B. Urban growth in this period was primarily driven by natural population increase among existing city residents rather than by immigration or rural-to-urban migration.
- C. Urban growth was evenly distributed across all regions of the country, suggesting that industrialization created opportunity throughout the United States simultaneously.
- D. The rapid growth of cities like Chicago and New York demonstrates that government-directed urban planning successfully managed the transition from an agricultural to an industrial economy.

18. Which factor most directly explains why the textile industry concentrated in New England rather than in the South or Midwest during the early stages of American industrialization? [US.06 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. New England's rivers provided waterpower for mills, and its merchant capital and skilled craftsmen supported early factory development
- B. New England had a larger enslaved population that could be used for textile manufacturing than other regions
- C. The federal government required textile factories to be located near East Coast ports for export efficiency
- D. New England's warmer climate was better suited to growing the cotton used in textile manufacturing

19. Which of the following was a major challenge faced by 'new' immigrants — those arriving from Southern and Eastern Europe — in assimilating into American society during the late 1800s and early 1900s? [US.07 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Federal law required new arrivals to return to their home countries after working in the United States for five years

- B. Language barriers, cultural differences, and nativist discrimination made social and economic integration difficult
- C. Established immigrant communities welcomed newcomers and immediately provided them with employment and comfortable housing
- D. The federal Bureau of Immigration assigned new immigrants to specific professions based on their nationality

20. Which conclusion about immigrant life in American cities is BEST supported by Jacob Riis's 1890 description of tenement conditions? [US.07 • DOK 3 • pre-field-test]

- A. New immigrants quickly assimilated into American middle-class life because landlords competed to offer immigrants comfortable housing in order to attract reliable tenants.
- B. The physical density and overcrowding of immigrant tenements reflected the failure of the urban housing market to meet working-class demand, producing conditions that reinforced poverty and slowed assimilation.
- C. Most immigrants voluntarily chose to live in crowded tenements as a temporary strategy to save money before purchasing homes in suburban neighborhoods.
- D. Tenement conditions were primarily the result of immigrants' cultural preferences for communal living rather than of economic constraint or landlord exploitation.

21. How did the immigration experience at Angel Island differ from the experience at Ellis Island? [US.07 • DOK 2 • pre-field-test]

- A. Angel Island processed European immigrants while Ellis Island processed Asian immigrants, but both had equally welcoming procedures
- B. Angel Island was known for rapid processing of immigrants who were immediately granted citizenship upon arrival
- C. Ellis Island processed primarily European immigrants with relatively brief inspections, while Angel Island subjected Asian immigrants — especially Chinese — to prolonged detention and intensive interrogation
- D. Both stations imposed equally rigorous detention and interrogation on all arriving immigrants regardless of national origin
